GRUMBLING GREETS BUDGET

Congressmen Offer Caustic Comments

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy's record breaking $98.8-billion budget brought cries of anguish in Congress Thursday.

Members of both parties said the President's $13.5-billion tax reduction plan will be endangered unless the flow of red ink spending can be stemmed.

Republicans were especially caustic with their comments, and some Democrats came close to matching them.

Hypocrisy

"To talk about a tax cut in the face of this budget is the height of political hypocrisy,"

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., told the Senate.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois called the budget incredible and with an eye on its estimated $11.9 billion deficit said:

"Obviously we have a new breed of economic thinkers—the new deficiters."

"The new frontiersmen," said Assistant House Republican Leader Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, "are indeed budget busters deluxe."

Few Listened

It took House Clerk Joseph Bartlett just 15 minutes to skim through the budget message and he lost most of his audience before he finished. Less than a third of the 435 House members were on the floor when he started and these dwindled to about 85 during Bartlett's machine gun delivery.

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, then rose up and spoke bitterly of "spending money we do not have for things we could get along without."

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, top Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, urged the House and Senate to discard Kennedy's budget and write their own, saying:

"Congress must assume a special responsibility this year in view of this budget."

In Wilderness

It was almost like a voice in the wilderness when House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., spoke out in defense of the White House document.

McCormack told newsmen it is a sound, progressive and responsible budget, "geared to the nation's actual and potential fiscal capacity."

"While in the short run, an unbalanced budget is the cost of the measures proposed by the President," McCormack said, "these measures offer every prospect of introducing a new era of economic growth."

Geared Too Low

From the sidelines, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the administration's spending and tax cutting plans are geared too low to take up the unemployment slack.

"Idle men and idle plants mean an idling economy," Meany said. "That is the deficit that should alarm us—the deficit in unused resources."

In the Senate, predictions were heard from both sides of the political aisle that government spending in the fiscal year starting July 1 will burst the bounds of Kennedy's budget and pass the $100-billion mark.

Over $100 Billion

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, forecast a $14-billion deficit if the President's tax cut plan is adopted and said spending will exceed $100 billion.

One has been the city's quest for a deputy public works director during the past two years.

Lt. Col. Walter J. Sanderson, a 43-year-old Lincolnite now serving with the Army Engineers in Germany, conditionally accepted the offered city post last October.

However, the city has had no word from Col. Sanderson since then as to whether he is obtaining his retirement from the Army to accept the city position.

Public Works Money Will Help Unemployed

Lincoln Star Special

Winnebago, Neb. — Allocation of $50,800 of accelerated public works funds to the Omaha and Winnebago Indian reservations in Thurston County will probably provide winter jobs for 50 to 75 unemployed men, Supt. Lewel Kingsley of the Winnebago Indian Agency said Thursday night.

The fund allocation was announced in Washington Thursday by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall. A total of $20,102,500 was allocated in 29 states, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico.

The program is designed to help start and speed state, local and federal public works projects that will provide immediate work in labor-surplus areas.

Divided Evenly

The Nebraska funds — $25,400 for each of the two reservations which occupy adjacent territories—will be used for conservation work on land owned by individual Indians and by the two tribes, Kingsley said.

Projects will include such things as terracing farmland and clearing brush on timber land, Kingsley said. He said a road project, for which funds had been asked, had apparently not been included in the allocation.

The work projects will be designed to fit into long-range plans of both tribes for the development of reservation areas, he said.

"We're very glad to hear the money has been approved," the superintendent said. "There are a lot of men who want and need work but haven't been able to find any."

Kingsley said the projects have already been planned and lists of unemployed men seeking work drawn up so that work can begin as soon as official notification is received.

Ralston Purina Selects Lincoln For Plant Site

By NANCY RAY

Star Staff Writer

Ralston Purina Company, one of the nation's 100 largest firms, has earmarked Lincoln as the site for a new livestock feed manufacturing plant employing about 50 persons.

Informed sources report that Ralston representatives have been carrying on field testing and survey work in the Lincoln area during the past year in order to determine the advisability of locating the manufacturing plant here for production of a new Ralston Purina product.

It is expected the new plant will produce Purina's built-in roughage (BIR) livestock feed—a new concept in feeding which would allow the cattle feeder to purchase a single total feed, ruling out the need for feeding extra hay.

A soybean mill is slated at a later date.

Arrangements Made

Location of the plant site has not been revealed but local sources confirmed that a purchase arrangement has already been concluded. The site designated is near the Interstate Highway access route (U.S. 77) and Burlington Railroad track connections in the vicinity of Union Airport.

Purina company officials at their St. Louis headquarters said the firm's plans were for a small warehouse" and that Lincoln "was under consideration along with other cities" not named.

They confirmed that experimental feeding tests of the new livestock feed product were being conducted in the area, but called the announcement of the new manufacturing plant "entirely premature."

Purina's new BIR feed is being tested in an experiment being conducted by about 50 Nebraska dealers on the Rose Hill experimental farm east of Lincoln.

Results Promising

Promising results have been reported by dealers testing the new product, with claims of up to 4-lb. daily gains reported on test animals. Two-pound daily gains are considered very satisfactory by cattle feeders.

In using the new Purina product, it is recommended that cattle be fed in confinement, limiting each animal to 17 square feet of space.

Ralston Purina, by far the largest producer of livestock and poultry feeds in the world, has more than 90 plants scattered across the U.S. at points near their varied markets.

The famous "Checkerboard Square" company has district sales offices and a feed plant in Omaha and also manufactures feed at Sioux City facilities.

Board Begins Dock Meetings

New York (AP) — A 3-man presidential board embarked Thursday on the stormy sea of waterfront labor relations, seeking an end to a 26-day, multimillion dollar East and Gulf Coast dock strike.

Intolerable Injury

Kennedy said the strike was "doing intolerable injury to the national welfare."

The board is empowered either to mediate an agreement, or recommend a settlement. If its findings are ignored, as Morse pointed out, Kennedy faces the necessity of taking the deadlock to Congress, with the possibility of resultant labor legislation to end the strike.

"I am not going to discuss the issues until we have made substantive progress. I have always mediated and arbitrated on the basis that I occupy a quasi-judicial position."

"Good Faith"

"There never has been and is not now any labor dispute that cannot be settled with good faith bargaining."

"Both sides talked to us in complete good faith. What we offer to the parties is their last opportunity to settle their disputes before the President reports to Congress."

On the motion of Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City, the unicameral voted 34-0 to direct a committee investigation of the cost involved.

That action followed a 22-15 vote which wiped out the original motion ordering the cabinet purchased.

Cost of the purchase—proposed Wednesday by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff—had been estimated at $4,859.

Tax Cut And Spending To Bring Deficit

... 1ST STEP TO BLACK INK

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy submitted to a grumbling Congress Thursday a national budget that would rocket spending to a record peak approaching $100 billion.

The President wrapped together into a single package a vast $98,802,000,000 spending program and another request for big-scale tax revisions and reductions. He said this financial plan would permit "the efficient and frugal conduct of the public business," boost the economy, and lead in time to balanced budgets.

Various members of Congress, some of them with key roles in federal financial affairs, leaped forward with cries of alarm and dissent. These were tempered by expressions of approval only to a degree that left it certain that Kennedy's budget is slated for a rugged route through halls of Congress.

Has Bulges

The new budget is for the 1964 fiscal year starting next July 1. It holds the line on spending for domestic affairs. But it bulges with record outlays of cash for defense and a space program aimed at the moon and a planet or two. Kennedy cautioned against false economy in these realms and said there is no way to buy security at cut rates.

The budget counts on revenues of only $86,900,000,000, clinching into the Treasury till. This is $11,902,000,000 short of what it would take to keep government ledgers out of the red.

Kennedy insisted, though, that this huge deficit and others to come would be only temporary—that red ink would turn to black once his program of $13.5 billion in tax cuts, offset by $3.5 billion in tax changes, began to take hold and "release the brake on the economy."

Two Or 3 Years

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon figured that on this basis a surplus is two or 3 years away.

The secretary told newsmen it is unreasonable to expect Congress to enact a tax law before next July 1. Thus the first tax relief, a drop in personal income tax rates, would come sometime this summer at the earliest.

The budget would soar to all sorts of records or near records.

There will be a special message later dealing with aid to education, with proposals for new legislation for which the budget provides $144 million.

As distilled from 6 pounds and 1,600 pages of budget message and tables, this is the federal financial outlook as the President now sees it:

The $55.4 billion for defense, up $2.7 billion from this year, is a record for peacetime. The $4.2 billion for space projects is a record nearly twice as big as last year's figure, although the space agency director called it an austerity budget.

And the tax cuts, should they ever come through, would be the biggest in all history, both in the total forecast and small surplus.

Debt Would Climb

So for the 1963 bookkeeping year, the government now is counting on taking in $85,500,000,000 in revenue, paying out $84,311,000,000 for expenses and running up that deficit of $8,811,000,000. And the national debt would climb to $304,490,000,000.

Then if Congress puts through the tax program as Kennedy wants it—and that is a substantial "if"—the administration figures it will collect revenue of $86,900,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

The President is asking, however, for expenditures of $98,802,000,000 as "the minimum necessary to meet the essential needs of our complex and growing society in an era of cold war."

32nd Largest

This works out to another deficit of $11,902,000,000. This would be the second largest in time of peace, ranking just behind the $12,427,000,000 deficit of 1959, in the Eisenhower administration.

The public debt would soar to a new peak of $35,604,000,000, and Kennedy notified Congress that this would require raising the legal limit on the debt once again.

JFK: NO DISCOUNT PRICE ON DEFENSE

Washington (UPI) — President Kennedy — saying "there is no discount price on defense" — urged Congress Thursday to boost military spending to a peacetime record of $51 billion next year.

New items included were for money to start work on an advance missile killer called Nike-X and to test the concept of an air assault division whose fighting men, lightweight tanks, and artillery would be flown to battle in Army planes.

Kennedy's new defense budget would beef up the nation's nuclear power with another 150 quick-firing Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles, with an indicated force of about 1,850 ICBMs and Polaris submarine-launched missiles available by the end of 1966.

Lots Bigger

The proposed budget is $2.7 billion bigger than this year, with about $885 million earmarked for a proposed military pay raise.

In his message, Kennedy said the new budget carries forward his aim of strengthening the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines and gearing them to handle every threat from global nuclear war to hit-and-run guerrilla warfare.

The new budget for the bookkeeping year starting July 1, puts heavy emphasis on:

— Equipping the Army with the latest self-propelled artillery, tanks, battlefield nuclear missiles and more airplanes and helicopters to give greater firepower and mobility.

Meanwhile, the bomber force will be decreasing slowly as missiles take over. The United States now has about 1,500 long-range jet bombers.

By the end of 1964, Kennedy said, this country still will have more than 1,000, many of them 8-jet B52s equipped with 500-mile-range Hound Dog missiles.

The Air Force was turned back once again in its efforts to push into full development of the 2,000-mile-an-hour R570 reconnaissance-strike bombers.

Costs Soaring In Space Race

... $4.2 BILLION SOUGHT

Washington (UPI) — President Kennedy urged a huge increase Thursday in spending by the civilian space agency. He said this is needed to insure whizzing the first Americans to the moon by 1970, and generally to put more U.S. pep into the space race with Russia.

The President asked Congress to okay a $4.2-billion tab for the space agency in fiscal 1964 — $1.8 billion more than in 1963 and more than 3 times the amount spent in 1962.

The lion's share of the increase would be for expanding the manned space flight effort — specifically on projects directed at achieving the "highest priority" objective of landing men on the moon before the end of the decade.

Kennedy recommended spending $2,713,000,000 for manned space flight, compared with an estimated $1,376,000,000 in the current year, and $547 million in fiscal 1962.

Underscoring the emphasis placed on space — along with defense — in the new budget, the administration also called for sizable increases in spending by the Atomic Energy Commission for space projects it conducts in conjunction with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

For Space

The President called for approval of $184,880,000 for the AEC in this field — $40.4 million more than this year — to cover "a substantial and increasing effort . . . to foster the use of nuclear energy in the exploration of outer space."

Space agency officials summed up the budget requests — and their plans for the money — in this way:

"Major emphasis will be on development and test of two-man (Gemini) and 3-man (Apollo) spacecraft and the Saturn series of large launch vehicles.

"Increases are also planned for unmanned investigations of the lunar and planetary environments, including development of the Centaur launch vehicle."

Farm Aid Is Unchanged

... BOOKKEEPING TO DELAY DRAIN

Washington (UPI) — The Kennedy administration expects to maintain federal aid to farmers at present levels during the coming fiscal year, but at a reduction of about $1.1 billion, or 16% from this year's dollar drain on the Treasury.

This saving is primarily a bookkeeping one. Because of the nature of farm program operations, a part of the cost of the 1964 fiscal year programs were in effect borne this year and a part will be delayed until the 1965 year.

Kennedy Again Bidding For $5-Billion Foreign Aid Plan

Washington (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Thursday for nearly $5 billion for foreign aid — the same amount he sought last year before Congress chopped off a billion dollars.

In present form his budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1, Kennedy apparently anticipated objections that congressmen might raise again in the annual fight over the politically unpopular program.

The President termed U.S. aid around the world vital to American security. He promised greater efficiency in the program, spoke of increasing aid by other Western countries and stressed reforms by the nations receiving help.

Selective

"In providing these sums," he said, "we will be highly selective, stressing projects and programs crucial to the rapid development of countries which are important to the maintenance of free world security and which demonstrate willingness and ability to marshal their own resources effectively."

Kennedy said more than $1 billion will flow to Latin America under the Alliance for Progress program.

India is also in line for substantial U.S. aid, including arms to defend itself against Red China, providing congressional opponents do not block the aid. Administration officials declined to reveal any

Additional Spending Proposals

From Press Reports

The budget presented by President Kennedy Thursday contains funds for starting construction of 43 new water resources projects by the Army Engineers, Reclamation Bureau, Indian Affairs Bureau and Tennessee Valley Authority. The government will have invested $792 million in them by the time they are completed.

In other broad categories of governmental endeavor, Kennedy is proposing to spend:

For health, labor and welfare, $5,613,000,000, an increase of about $700 million.

For housing and community development, $276 million, a decrease of $249 million.

For commerce and transportation, $3,388,000,000, up $63 million.

For natural resources, $2,503,000,000, an increase of $123 million.

For international affairs and finance, $2,678,000,000, a reduction of $195 million.

For education, $1,537,000,000, up $176 million.

For veterans benefits and services, $5,484,000,000, down $61 million.

For general government, including congress and the courts, $2,195,000,000, up $154 million.

For salaries and expenses of the White House office, $2,720,000, an increase of $180,000 attributed to pay raises.

De Gaulle Plans Visit

Paris, (UPI) — President and Mrs. De Gaulle will pay an official visit to Greece May 16-19, officials at Elysee Palace, the French White House, announced.

Under existing law, this will increase to 9-1/2% by 1968. By then, these workers will be contributing more than a month's salary a year — $438.

exact amount planned for India but Kennedy cited the Communist Chinese attack as showing "the need and importance of our assistance."

Little Departure

The fiscal 1964 budget included no drastic departure from last year's program but did continue a trend toward economic development loans to build foreign economies, instead of outright grants or gifts.

Kennedy sought $4,945,000,000 for the coming year, of which $3,465,000,000 would be for economic assistance and $1,480,000,000 for military assistance. The total is $13,000,000 below his fiscal 1963 appropriation request, of which Congress approved only $3,929,000,000.

The actual foreign aid spending rate for fiscal 1964 is expected to drop somewhat because of the time lag between Congress' voting money and its actual expenditure.

The excess over what Congress voted would be available to pay bills in future years. Kennedy estimated the 1964 outlay at $3,750,000,000, down $100 million from this year. A $300-million drop in arms deliveries overseas offsets a $200-million rise in economic spending.

RR Employees Deductions To Be Increased

Washington (UPI) — Of the millions of Americans who would enjoy a tax cut under President Kennedy's proposed budget, 800,000 would find one of their taxes going up.

They are the nation's railway employees. They contribute, through payroll deductions, to a government-regulated trust fund that finances railroad retirement benefits. As in Social Security, a similar program, their employers must match the payments.

Kennedy told Congress Thursday this tax schedule must be raised to help cover the fund's annual $77 million deficit.

Already, railway employees pay the fund 7-1/4% of their first $400 in monthly earnings. For an employee making at least $400 a month, this is $348 a year.

Under existing law, this will increase to 9-1/2% by 1968. By then, these workers will be contributing more than a month's salary a year — $438.

Tshombe Promises Kolwezi Surrender

Elisabethville, Katanga (UPI) — Moise Tshombe agreed Thursday night to surrender his last stronghold in Katanga — the mining center at Kolwezi — and said he personally would try to talk diehard supporters out of their threat to blow up power and mining installations there.

The Katanga president who kept his province independent from the Congo for two years came to agreement after 4 hours of talks with U.N. officials here.

He went into the meeting looking grim and determined but came out smiling.

The surrender of Kolwezi,

150 miles northwest of here, may be Tshombe's final act of capitulation in ending his secession.

A communiqué after the meeting said Tshombe agreed to allow the U.N. force on the road from Jadotville to Kolwezi to enter the city by Monday. He said he would go to Kolwezi Saturday to order his gendarmerie not to resist the U.N. troops and to dismantle explosives they are said to have affixed to industrial installations, dams and bridges.

The United Nations agreed to protect the gendarmerie and not to treat them as prisoners of war.

The girl used the name "Ysabella" for her stage appearances. Officers said this is the first name of the woman whose immigration visa she used for identification.

Sylvia, who is of Latin American descent, is about 5 feet tall and of slender build.

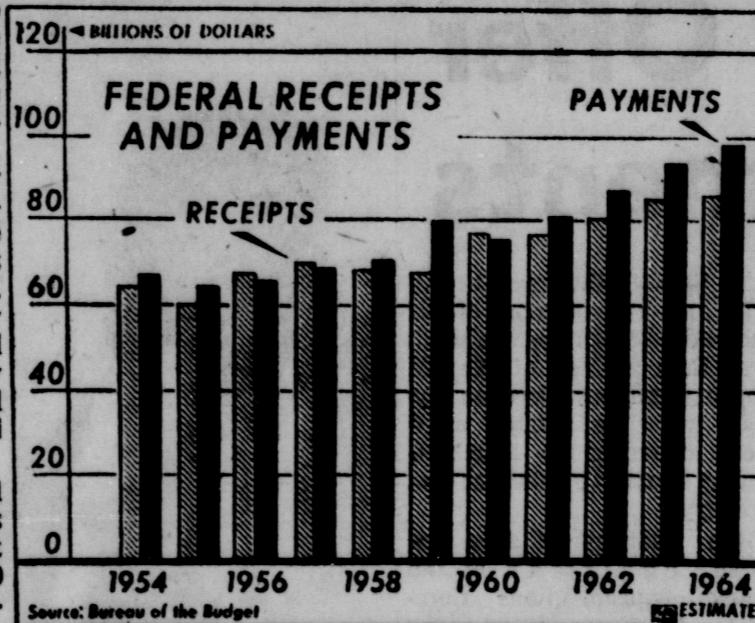

"She looks 22 all right," a juvenile officer said. "But when she starts crying and her mascara comes off, she looks like a 14-year-old kid."

Operation Set For Truman

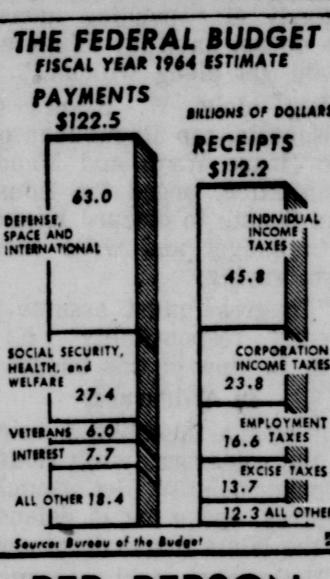

Kansas City (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman will undergo surgery for a hernia Friday morning.

Research Hospital, which he entered Monday for a physical checkup, said it was a "routine hernia operation," but supplied no other details. It said the surgery would be performed sometime between 8 and 9 a.m., CST.

The hospital said Truman, now 78, probably would be in the hospital a week.

$8,100,000 Recommended For Northern Nebraska Plan

Washington (UPI)—President Kennedy Thursday recommended a $43.7 million budget to plan, build, and operate public works in Nebraska and neighboring states during the year beginning next July 1.

The funds were included in the $1,066,916,000 proposed for the Army Engineers in fiscal 1964, and the $376,469,000 budget for the Reclamation Bureau.

The engineers budgeted $23.2 million for public works wholly within Nebraska and shared by nearby states, and the Reclamation Bureau, $20.5 million.

It employs over 12,000 persons and has plants and outlets in Europe, Latin America and Australia.

Plans Spurred

Ralston's plans to locate the new feed manufacturing plant in Lincoln are a spur to the industrial expansion plan being promoted by Gov. Frank Morrison, who has urged expanded cattle feeding enterprises among farmers as a bulwark of agricultural planning for the state.

State and local officials interested in industrial growth for the Lincoln area have expressed the view that agriculturally-oriented industry would be well-suited for the city's interests.

Lincoln, presently a leading grain storage facility, also boosts two other feed manufacturing firms—Gooch Milling & Elevator Co. and Honegger's & Co. Inc.

George David, manager of American Stores, recently commented that if cattle feeding activity in the area could be increased, Lincoln would be a good prospect for another meat packing plant. At present, David said, his firm pays farmers between $65 and $70 million a year for cattle, and his plant slaughters more cattle in a month than Lancaster County feeders produce in a year.

Former Fairbury Man Hangs Self In Kansas Lockup

Colby, Kansas (AP)—A 38-year-old parolee from the Colorado Penitentiary has been found hanged in a cell at Thomas County Jail at Colby, Kansas.

County Attorney Frank Caro identified the man as Lyle E. Schultz, recently of Fairbury, in southeastern Nebraska.

Caro says Schultz was jailed Wednesday and charged with drunk driving.

Schultz was later found hanging from a tier on the jail bars. Caro says the man apparently tore the lining from his sweater for a noose and tied it to the bars.

He says Schultz, who had been working as a magazine salesman in Fairbury, where he had relatives, had been treated for mental disorders.

An ex-wife of Schultz's, now re-married, lives in Aurora, Colorado, with her 6 children. His parents live in Limon, Colorado.

Dedication Of Crete's Guard Armory Set

Ceremonies dedicating the new National Guard Armory at Crete are scheduled Sunday, Nebraska Adjutant General Lyle A. Welch announced Thursday.

The armory, home of Crete's 1056th transportation company, was completed early last year while the company was on a year's active federal service at Fort Sill, Okla., during the Berlin crisis. Members of the company were returned to Crete last Aug. 5.

The history of the Crete National Guard dates back to 1894 when the Doane College Company was formed. It remained active until 1908.

Crete veterans participated in the Philippines campaign of the Spanish American War with the first Nebraska infantry regiment, about which the saying developed: "There goes the first Nebraska and all hell can't stop them."

As part of the dedication ceremony Sunday, Lt. Carlyle A. Thompson, unit commander, will be commissioned by Gov. Frank Morrison to sprinkle a sample of soil from the James Monroe Memorial Shrine in Fredericksburg, Va., on the lawn near the armory entrance early next spring. The soil was presented to Mrs. Benjamin G. Miller, Crete resident instrumental in obtaining ground for the armory, for the historical purpose.

Lincoln Statue Restored

Ruth Dunn, left, and Jenifer Lockener, 6th graders at Arapahoe, stand beside a statue of Abraham Lincoln which was discovered in the attic when the old school was razed. The statue was cleaned up and given a prominent place in the new school. It was given to the school by the class of 1916, but several years ago it was relegated to the attic. Sixth and 7th graders put up a fight to get the Lincoln statue back on display.

The engineers' budget included:

The wail of the town fire siren called all traffic to a halt shortly before 3 p.m. when the herd drew within a mile of the Highmore Livestock Exchange, where the cows will be auctioned Saturday. Frei said he hopes the herd will bring $150,000.

Most of Highmore's 1,078 residents turned out to watch the last leg of the drive, similar to the 80-mile trek of rancher Don Hight last winter. Hight drove through blizzards and waisthigh snow to

Cairo Crash Kills Woman

Cairo (AP)—A 64-year-old Cairo farm woman was killed Thursday afternoon in a two-car crash at a county road intersection a mile east and a mile south of Cairo.

She was Mrs. Anna Bruhn, wife of Detlef Bruhn, long-time resident of the Cairo area.

Her car was in collision with one driven by Walter L. Johnson, 27, of Cairo. He was treated by a Cairo doctor but not hospitalized.

Both drivers were alone in their cars.

The death was Nebraska's 12th traffic fatality of the year. The total was 3 less than a year ago.

Cram Re-Elected

Lyons—Gary Cram of Lyons was re-elected president of the Burt County National Farmers Organization at the group's annual meeting and election.

The herd fanned out for 3/4-mile along South Dakota Highway 34 during the drive. Frei said his cowhands stood the ordeal "awful good," but they got "awful tired," particularly on Tuesday, when it was "awful cold."

The herd is the largest of its type ever sold at public auction in South Dakota, Gene De Haven, one of the owners of the Highmore Livestock Exchange, said. Other herds sold at auction in the state included bulls and steers as well as cows. The Frei herd contains only cows.

The herd traveled through ankle deep snow during the day and bedded down in it at night. Frei said the herd moved "just fine. We didn't lose any cattle but some of them shrank a bit. You'd expect that, driving them that far." He hoped the two day rest would restore the tired animals for the sale.

Terry Trips ETV

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It is hoped that Sen. Terry Carpenter finds out in a hurry what he wants to know about the virtues of closed circuit educational television. Carpenter said that after talking to a group from South Carolina, where closed circuit ETV is in use, he wants ETV progress in Nebraska halted until the closed circuit idea can be examined here. He expressed amazement that the Nebraska ETV study committee gave the idea no more than passing notice in its report on the subject.

Even more amazing, it seems, is Carpenter's falling for the closed circuit line.

The visitors who discussed the matter with Senator Carpenter, the governor and others were not from South Carolina. One was from North Carolina and represented the Superior Cable Corp. of Hickory, No. Carolina, as vice president for sales. Another was the sales engineer for Superior out of Kansas City, Mo. Now, there is nothing against these gentlemen's pushing their wares but one should be rather slow to swallow their presentation when they sell the cable over which closed circuit ETV would be sent.

And what about the system in South Carolina? As we understand it, South Carolina spends more than $400,000 a year in leasing of wires from the telephone company there to serve somewhere in the neighborhood of 30 high schools. South Carolina is the only state in the Union using closed circuit ETV as opposed to standard broadcasting.

Other states which no longer have the chance of using VHF broadcasting system that is still available for ETV in Nebraska have turned, not to closed circuit, but to UHF broadcasting, despite its higher cost and inconvenience. Even UHF, as limited and expensive as it is, is better than closed circuit.

And South Carolina would just about fit into the Nebraska Sandhills. Think of what it would cost to run cables around this state to operate a closed circuit system! The man who served as ETV consultant for Nebraska was John Swartzwaler of St. Paul, Minn. Did his report just skim over the subject of closed circuit television? It did, but for a reason. Mr. Swartzwaler is the foremost authority in the United States on educational television. He set up and operated the first ETV broadcasting station in this country at the University of Houston in 1953. He was a member of the Texas ETV commission, chairman of the Minnesota commission, has just been elected chairman of the Television Broadcasting National Association of Educational Broadcasters, has done surveys on ETV for the state of Kansas, in areas of Minnesota and North Dakota, the cities of Cleveland and Detroit, has served as consultant for the states of Louisiana and Florida, founded KTCA-TV at St. Paul and has been in on a host of other developments in the field.

It seems that Mr. Swartzwaler should merit our respect when he speaks on the subject of ETV. And what does he say about the closed circuit "skim job" that was in his Nebraska report? Certainly the subject was skimmed over, he said, because closed circuit TV is ruinously and fantastically expensive. "It is ridiculous for Nebraska even to contemplate any such possibility," he said. The cost of such a system, especially for Nebraska, would be astronomical, he emphasized.

Interestingly enough, North Carolina, from where the recent Nebraska visitors hail, uses the broadcast system rather than closed circuit. Of course, there are many technical details to all of this with which we are not familiar and those such as Senator Carpenter may not be familiar with but closed circuit TV certainly appears to have everything against it and nothing in its favor.

It could bring six programs at once into a school rather than one as would be the case with broadcasting but we seriously doubt that any school, even in Lincoln and Omaha, could use six programs at once or that this many could even be produced without substantially more expense than is contemplated with the broadcast system.

To offset any such possible advantage of the six programs is the fact that closed circuit ETV would deny the facility to all but the schools. It is inconceivable that cables could ever transmit the programs into the rural areas of Nebraska. This would simply do away with the adult informational and educational programs that are a part of ETV in the late afternoon and evening hours. And this is one of the most valuable aspects of the program — bringing to the people of this state a greater understanding of the world in which they live and the problems that face humanity.

If Senator Carpenter has gotten the closed circuit story, it is hoped that he masters its financial facts with haste. It would be an unfortunate reversal to have the progress of ETV set back at this point for another two years for the consideration of such an unpromising thing as a closed circuit system.

Forgotten People

It is for coexistence although Pravda has not had room in its columns to make note of it.

Without taking comfort either from Castro or the U.S. party Mr. Khrushchev handed the Red Chinese a hot package when he suggested closed ranks and a wait and see attitude. What that adds up to is acceptance of his policies with history as the judge. That means shut up and line up.

What Khrushchev is actually saying is that the atomic posture of the United States is so formidable that a test of strength would be futile. Hence fond desire has to give way to realism.

If the shoe were on the other foot we could expect an ultimatum from East Berlin. The burden of it would be to surrender or be blown off the earth.

Beyond Our Toleration

It is not without some reluctance that many people will approve of President Kennedy's action in the 26-day-old strike of longshoremen and maritime workers. The President has said that the strike has gone beyond "the point of public toleration" and with this there should be widespread agreement.

At this stage of things, it can be said that the public has lost most of its interest in the disagreements that exist between labor and management, as is the case, too, with the newspaper strike in New York. What the public seeks now is an end to the fantastic waste that is a result of such prolonged disagreements as these.

What the public wants is for labor and management to get together and find a solution. If this is impossible for labor and management, then a solution should be pro-

Arlington For War Hero, Well, Perhaps

seems to have forgotten an incident on a battlefield 44 years ago—Oct. 9, 1918, to be precise, near the shell-shattered village of Consenvoye, France—when an enemy machine-gun nest pinned down Company H of the 132d Infantry Battalion.

While the soldiers crouched behind humps and huddled in shellholes, a 38-year-old dogface, Pvt. Berger Loman, inched his way across no-man's-land on his belly as the bullets whined over his head and singed his back.

Painstakingly, he crawled around the machine-gun nest. Then he sprang up with grenade and rifle, surprised the machine gunners, killed or captured the entire crew, and turned their deadly gun on the retreating enemy.

For his heroism, Pvt. Loman was awarded his country's highest decoration, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

But the years have passed, and Uncle Sam's memory has grown dim. Now 82, Berger Loman got to worrying the other day about a resting place for his wife, and he and his wife can be taken care of.

He wrote with shaky hand to the Congressional Medal of Honor Society, asking whether it would be possible for them to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The society's president, Luther Skaggs, forwarded the letter to the Defense Department's memorial division. Here is the answer the forgotten hero received at

DORIS FLEESON

1964 Crucial Year For Demo Control

WASHINGTON — The big political story emerging from the first few days of Senate operations is the effort of Democratic moderates and liberals to form a strong statewide candidates, as Harry Truman did in 1948.

The President will probably help some of the '64 senators and almost certainly will handicap a few others.

The new fight to liberalize the Senate Rules is part of it. So is the leadership taken by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the party's liberal whip, in that fight and his candidacy for chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee.

The urgency attaching to it stems from a few simple facts. Of 33 senators up next year, 24 are Democrats, only three of whom are from the Deep South. Even those Southerners have problems of health and internal politics. The other 21 can expect vigorous Republican opposition and fear a future which does not contain at least a few triumphs on bread-and-butter issues.

The unusual imbalance in the class of 1964 results from the great breakthrough in 1958 when Democrats won control of the Senate by a handsome majority despite the efforts of President Eisenhower. In contrast, the group up last fall included 19 Democrats and 15 Republicans; in 1966 roughly one-half ratio will prevail.

The Supreme Court decision refused to bring such a disability upon an organized minority seeking to provide for its race such privileges as the Constitution and the law provides. The State of Virginia cannot bring its convenient statute to bear. No matter how subtle the Virginia device may have been one things stands out. It was less a war against the NAACP as it was against the law of the land. One cannot believe that it had much real relation to the vice commonly known as barratry.

Weather Note: Golfers out around Trenton are of rather a rugged breed. Whenever the occasion and temperature permit, they are out there battling the oil balls around, regardless of what the calendar says.

The Register comments: "Not much is said about score. This time of year, it seems enough just to say that you had nerve enough to go out and play."

Tax Note: A Bertrand Herald writer states emphatically that one of the joys of owning a new car is not in the paying of taxes. And he is sure to be joined in this assertion by everyone possessed of a new car about this time of the year.

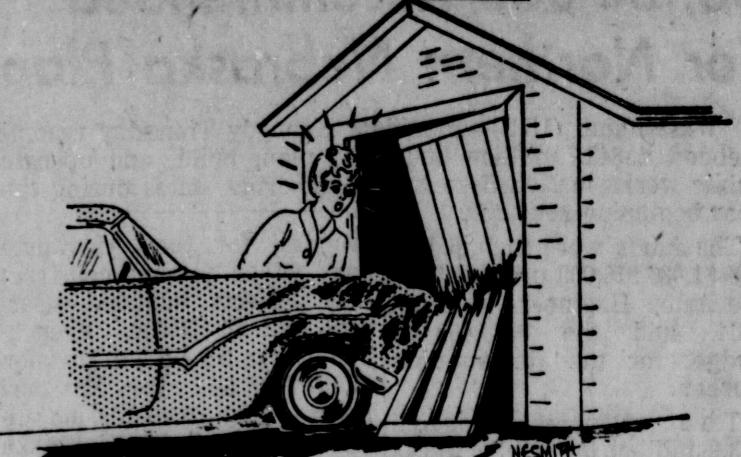

He smilingly adds that his old "beater" is his pride and joy. And that his car taxes amount to the lovely sum of $2.92.

Postage Note: Perhaps the one subject most thoroughly discussed the past week in the state press was the same one that was being verbally hashed and rehashed . . . the increase in postage rates. Some were agin' it . . . some, tolerant . . . but all of them were paying it . . .

Jack D. Tarr, in the David City Banner-Press: "Our local mathematician has commented he thought President Kennedy was quite a fellow when he put a halt to plans for a $6 a ton increase in the price of steel. Now with the $320 a ton increase in the price of first-class postage, he is not sure how much he likes JFK."

Clarence Hebdon, in the Nance County Journal: "The buffalo nickel that in our younger days was used to buy a triple dip ice cream cone (on special) today is required to mail Joe Doakes a statement telling him that he owes you 60 cents for a classified ad he ordered in November."

Mrs. Lester Eastwood turns out a weekly column for the Pawnee Republican. In addition to being an excellent writer, she is also as completely honest as a woman can be. The complaint reached her ears that while she latches onto the errors of her friends and neighbors and gives them the bright light of publicity in her column, she neglects ever to mention any of her own shortcomings. She soon set that little matter straight. "For their benefit, I am announcing that a splintered garage door at our place is my sole responsibility. advertisers for its value in tourist attraction.

Suds Note: The Sargent Leader advises that farmers using deep well irrigation may be surprised to find their wells burping soapsuds. Lexington wells have come up with detergent foam three to four feet high. It seems that hard detergents are nearly indestructible and instead of breaking down as soap, they go on and on. The foam bubbles on through lakes and rivers and often seeps through the earth from septic tanks to well water. Agriculture officials have ever seen some of the items.

Post-Holiday Note: The Auburn Press-Tribune received what it considered a most unusual sale bill recently. All of the farm equipment listed was purchased before 1910 and several of the items had wooden wheels. Each item was horse-drawn and it was doubtful whether many teenagers and even older people had ever seen some of the items.

Antique Note: Out at Henderson, John T. Thieszen began rebuilding old steam threshing machine engines as a hobby. The hobby expanded and he has purchased more buildings and is collecting antique farm machinery of all kinds. It has been suggested that the project be

Against Proposal

Columbus, Neb.

The Columbus Agricultural Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, January 15, voted unanimously against a legislative proposal to raise a million dollars by increase in real estate taxes to finance the centennial celebration. The Agricultural Committee believes that a large majority of the farmers will oppose such a plan.

The committee was especially critical of the proposal to spend a million dollars only. The committee believes that a million dollars for promotional purposes could be put to better use — something that will benefit Nebraska for a good many years.

Farm Picture

Lincoln, Neb.

Your editorial of January 8, "Freeman Challenge Unchallenged," and the announcement of Secretary Freeman's message to the farmers of the Midwest slap us in the face with that hardy old perennial, "the farm problem," which has been with us in a very big way since 1920.

I'm afraid our farmers haven't appreciated the enormous importance the European Common Market is having on the worldwide agricultural picture. In the last 30 years, American agriculture has far outdistanced that of all other countries. But there is great agricultural potential in Western Europe. That region can come pretty close to feeding its own people once it is united in the Common Market. Tariff barriers have kept Europe's agriculture little and undeveloped. In a few years, Western Europe is going to be thoroughly mechanized for farming and its Common Market will go far to take care of its marketing. The very toughest problem that our negotiators have to deal with is getting our agricultural products into Europe even as good a basis as is now the case.

If our farmers continue to vote down every administration proposal for relief and simply cuss government interference, they are likely to find themselves in a much worse position marketwise than they are now. Mass production and automation with all their evils and advantages have swept over us in the last 10 years like a tidal wave. Our farmers are not meeting the challenge. They produce with an efficiency beyond praise but they sometimes seem to fail to realize what kind of a world they are living in and what the conditions are for marketing their produce.

Such will o' the wisp attempts as that of NFO to set their own prices and the sapsheads who can think of nothing better than to scream that the government stop regulating their business are equally futile. The farmer is in a good position to make a good deal with the government and the country in general. We ought to have a long-distance program automatically adjusting production to markets.

If the farm planning chaos continues, the farmer is going to be much worse off 10 years from now than he is at the present time.

I for one am very happy that Mr. Steen is not a politician. A politician is one who is always afraid of offending someone and never gets anything done. A statesman is one who thinks not of hurting a few feelings. Mr. Steen is not a politician but I do agree he could be a little diplomatic. The state capitol building is one of the most beautiful buildings in the world but because of politics, no one would take the responsibility for opening the building to tourists on weekends or turning the lights on at night, until recently.

Mr. Steen, his workers and department have done a fantastic job and should be congratulated. The ball is rolling through their efforts. Now we want to establish a new department to take over. I think it is ridiculous because the waste of money for salaries, rental space, equipment and materials would use up most of the appropriation. It also duplicates what we already have. If Mr. Steen were given the proper help and money, just imagine what a job he could do. He has been completely tied up and the only way he has been able to accomplish the tremendous job he has done is by being forced.

POSTCARD

by

Stan Delaplaine

As every Hawaiian knows, you should never ask a man if he is going fishing. Even if he is headed for the shore with a cane pole over his shoulder.

In the first place, he isn't going to the Junior prom.

Secondly, the fish will hear you. The fish will refuse to take the bait, knowing there is a hook in it.

All of this came down to the Hawaiians historically. And much of it came to this historic port of Waimea on the island of Kauai where island kings got together for fish and poi Rotary lunches.

Waimea is still a port town. Though not of the same importance as in the days when these were known as the Sandwich Islands.

They were named after the English Earl of Sandwich.

Captain James Cook was on his way to the northwest coast of America from Tahiti when his lookout cried: "Land ho!"

The Captain thereupon ran the ships Discovery and Resolution up to Waimea and made a landing.

The Hawaiians gave them fish and poi, the diet of the islands.

Poi is made by pounding taro roots into a starchy paste. It looks like wallpaper paste and tastes a good deal the same way.

"How is it, Cap'n?" shouted the jolly British tars. "It isn't ham sandwich," said the great discoverer.

As an afterthought, he named the islands for the Earl who had put up some money for the voyage and a piece of the action. It was an historic day—this exact day of January 18 in 1778.

In 1791, Captain John Kendrick took on supplies for his American trading ship.

He discovered that wood he bought for fuel was sandalwood.

In China, the Chinese paid wild prices for sandalwood.

So in short order, the kings stripped the islands of every piece of sandalwood. While it lasted, they lived high on the Hawaiian hog.

When it was gone, back to the fish and poi.

Today, Waimea is one of the number of little towns that fringe the Garden Island. It services sugar cane workers—mainly from Waimea Sugar Mill Co., Ltd.

There is a limestone church built in 1853 by the missionary Rev. George R. Rowell. A Kauai island queen weighing 300 pounds worked as a cheerleader on the project. Urging the Hawaiian converts to put down the old fishing pole and pick up that limestone block, son.

It has a bank, a community swimming pool and a branch library. There is a small plaque marking the landing place of Captain Cook.

State's Rights Resolutions To Get Committee Hearing

The Legislature cut off debate on three "state's rights" resolutions Thursday by referring the resolutions to the unicameral's government committee for public hearing.

A second resolution proposes a federal constitutional amendment to make it clear that the federal government has no control over legislative reapportionment in the states.

The third resolution calls for an amendment creating a new "Court of the Union," composed of chief justices of the state supreme courts, which could override decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

BRANDT NIXES NIK'S TALK BID

... Under Political Pressure

Berlin (P) — Premier Khrushchev visited the Berlin wall Thursday and then invited Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin to come talk things over with him.

Brandt reluctantly rejected the bid, blaming pressure from the Berlin section of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's party, the Christian Democrats.

The Communists have been arguing that West Berlin's government and senate should deal with them directly on their mutual problems without reference to the Bonn government. Thus Khrushchev's motive in inviting Brandt to East Berlin seemed clear.

Confusion

But the Christian Democrats told the West Berlin mayor that if he accepted they no longer would participate in the city's coalition government. This would have caused political confusion in advance of next month's West Berlin election. Brandt is a member of the Social Democratic Party.

Brandt said Chancellor Adenauer told him by telephone from Bonn, "If we were in my situation he would conduct the talks."

Western allied officials also said they would have had no objections to the meeting.

"I had the impression," Brandt told a news conference at city hall, "that I have made a decision against something which objectively I consider necessary."

Brandt said he felt the talk

British Bid In Market Is Stymied

Brussels (UPI) — France urged a suspension of talks on British entry into the Europe as a Common Market Thursday in a move that appeared to push the marathon negotiations to the verge of a breakdown.

Britain's supporters within the economic bloc proposed setting up a committee to review progress so far. But the move was seen as a stopgap measure by France's partners — West Germany, Italy and the Benelux Countries — to prolong negotiations beyond next week's scheduled meeting between French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The 5 apparently were hoping that Adenauer could persuade De Gaulle to modify his opposition.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak termed the impasse "a difficult spot."

Another meeting was scheduled for Friday. But after hearing lengthy speeches from all member delegations Thursday, Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns said:

"I have had enough, gentlemen. I think it is time to go home."

A French spokesman said France did not consider Britain ready to enter the market.

"The British have said they do not want association, so we must find an alternative solution," he said. "France thinks the talks should be suspended to give time for this solution to be studied."

The spokesman said France would not walk out on the talks. But a Dutch spokesman said France obviously wanted to break off negotiations but avoid being blamed for it.

would have been of mutual interest to both the West Berliners and the communists.

However, opponents of the project contended Khrushchev would score a point in the battle of Berlin and so be in a better propaganda position to push the communist demand that Berlin be internationalized as a "free city." That is a major plank in Khrushchev's Berlin program.

"After weighing all aspects," Brandt said, "I decided to tell the other side, with great regret, that unforeseen difficulties had made it impossible for me to attend the talk, which was set for Thursday night."

Door Open?

Brandt indicated the door might still be open. He was asked by newsmen if "tomorrow is another day," and replied, "In a formal sense, I have only refused for today."

Khrushchev, in Berlin for a meeting of the East German communist party, was at the wall 15 minutes. His visit in effect confirmed his endorsement of the barrier which bisects Berlin and locks 17 million East Germans off from the West.

It was Khrushchev's first view of the wall. Grinning and looking full of confidence, he saw the spot where American and Soviet tanks stood ominously face to face in October 1961.

He waved airily in the direction of famed Checkpoint Charlie, the Western allied control point in the American sector.

Khrushchev had come straight from the bleak Werner Seelenbinder sports palace in East Berlin. There his communist supporters from 70 world parties have been wrestling with the problem of a sullen Red Chinese resistance to his cold war policies.

Khrushchev has called for an end to public quarreling and name-calling between the followers of Peking and Moscow — before any meeting of leaders is held to thrash out the differences in private.

But he carried the name-calling a step further in a tough speech at the congress Wednesday, and Thursday it was more of the same.

Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka echoed Khrushchev's call to keep the battle inside the Red family. But he went down the line for all the Soviet leader's arguments. He carried on the same masquerade of attacking the Albanian communists while obviously meaning the Red Chinese.

Doctors Give Gaitskell A New Kidney

London (P) — Doctors resorted to an artificial kidney early Friday for Labor Party leader Hugh Gaitskell. Kidney complications on top of a mysterious virus infection posed a new threat to his life.

The 56-year-old politician was wheeled into the operating room at Middlesex Hospital shortly after midnight and the artificial kidney was installed. The machine's function is to keep the body's blood purification mechanics working.

A medical bulletin issued Thursday night said Gaitskell has shown no signs of improvement and was dangerously ill. Earlier Thursday hospital bulletins indicated he may have been rallying.

SISTER DONATES BONES

Leslie Rosean, 7, is comforted by her sister, Jill, 17, after a 3-hour operation for a major bone graft at Marin General Hospital at Greenbrae, Calif., Wednesday.

Bones from the hip of Leslie were grafted to the scapula of Leslie's left arm to make whole a bone crippled by a benign tumor.

Dr. William L. Clark who performed the operation said it was a success and was the first time in his experience that such a major bone graft had been attempted. Jill is still limping from the removal of the bone from her hip, but she was happy over the side benefit of the operation. "I've lost 8 pounds," she said.

Law Determining Governor's Illness May Defy Constitution

Lincoln lawyer Richard Hansen, author of a book on presidential disability, suggested Thursday in a University of Nebraska convocation speech that the Nebraska law on determining the disability of the governor may be unconstitutional.

Hansen, whose book is entitled "The Year We Had No President," said inclusion of the chief justice of the state supreme court as a member of the disability committee "clearly violates" the constitutional requirement separating the judiciary from the in addition to the chief justice, the Nebraska law includes the director of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute and the dean of the College of Medicine on a committee which would be required to determine whether the governor is disabled and the lieutenant governor should take the powers of the office.

The law was passed after the illness of the late Gov. Ralph Brooks, who was ill for some time before he died in office.

Hansen suggested that solution of the problem on both state and federal level would be to have a medical fact-finding team determine disability and announce its conclusions to the public as well as to the governor's appointive officers, who would then determine whether the lieutenant governor should take over.

"If the public knew that a governor was disabled the officers of the executive department would be subject to unceasing public criticism should they refuse to call in the lieutenant governor," Hansen said.

Dr. Frederick Roblee left the church at the end of 1962 to accept an executive-secretary position with the Illinois Council of Churches.

During the Westminster annual meeting, the 1963 budget was set at $140,000 of which $20,000 will be used for benevolences.

Gene C. Eaton, Norman Leuthauser, Elmer Magee, Bernard Peters, W. W. Ray, Charles H. Patterson, Mrs. Ed Weaver, Charles Sayre, H. Clay Cox Jr., Joyce Ayers and Robert P. Durrie were named elders for the coming year.

News Honorary Initiates Fourteen Undergrads, Pros

Six undergraduate and 8 professional members were initiated Thursday night into Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Undergraduates included Gary Howe of David City, Gery Lacey of Scottsbluff, Tim Gartney of Lincoln, Jerry Kelly of Ogallala, John Morris of McCook, and Tom Morris of Lincoln.

Professionals are Robert Morris of Wymore, Basil Rafferty of Omaha, and Norman Francis, the Rev. Rawley Myers, Dan McNulty, Keith Blackledge, Dr. Roberto Esquivel-Mayo and A. James Ebel, all of Lincoln.

Fifty-six Nebraska journalists attended a banquet following the ceremonies and engaged in an off-the-record question and answer session with Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

News Of The Bridge, Coffees, Guests That Keep The Suburban Areas On The Hop, Skip And Jump

PERSHING HEIGHTS

In the spring, a young man's fancy turns to love, and in January, Suburbia's fancy turns to forgetting about the cold weather by keeping busy, busy, busy!

Hosting a coffee for Pershing Heights and Northeast Heights neighbors Tuesday was Mrs. Garrett Tyler. Featuring a demonstration of plastic products by Mrs. Margaret Peden, the morning coffee was "the first outing after the holidays" for most of Mrs. Tyler's guests.

Those guests included Mrs. Harold Hoage, Mrs. Jim Kopetka, Mrs. Lee Schlegel, Mrs. Ed Brotzman, and Mrs. Conrad Bastow.

And news of weddings seem to be the thing in Pershing Heights as well as Cotner Terrace this week. Here's another, and this one will be bringing guests from Beloit, Wis., to the Pershing Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal C. McNeill.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeill's daughter, Miss Judy McNeill, will become the bride of Richard Svoboda on Sunday, and coming for the ceremony are Judy's uncle and aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Hill and Dannie and Pamela.

These Wisconsin visitors will be staying with Mr. and Mrs. McNeill until Sunday evening.

We might also mention that, besides the Wisconsin houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. McNeill will also be entertaining several friends and relatives from York at informal gatherings at their home during the weekend.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

And while we're on the subject of the McNeill-Svoboda wedding, we should tell you that Richard is the son of Northeast Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Svoboda, and that they will also be entertaining out-of-town guests during the "wedding weekend."

Already at the Svoboda home is Marvin Geib, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Svoboda, who arrived on Monday from Idaho Falls, Idaho, who will be staying until the forepart of next week.

Expected today are Mrs. Svoboda's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Geib and Evelyn. They will be making the trip from their home in Pierce, Colo., and also will be in Lincoln until the first of the week.

On Tuesday we told you about the Browns in Cotner Terrace, and we mustn't forget the Cubs in Northeast Heights! The two neighborhood Cub dens that make up Pack 58 will be touring the National Guard Armory this afternoon with their den leaders, Mrs. Ted Marshall and Mrs. Jim Kopetka.

Sounds like a fun field trip fellows!

New neighbors we want to tell you about are Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Dye, who have been in their new Northeast Heights home since the Saturday after Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Dye, who formerly resided at 6025 Gladstone have two children, Brenda, 5, and Allen, 3.

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

News from Park Valley Heights this week is of a birthday party at the Dale Adams residence and a "visitor's visit" to be made this weekend.

That birthday celebration was for Master Gary Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Adams, and helping him celebrate were several of his friends plus some of Mrs. Adams' friends.

The party recognizing Gary's third anniversary was on Tuesday morning, and the celebrants were Mrs. Charles Stalder, son, Michael and daughter, Soni; Mrs. Robert King and her children Peggy and Danny, and Mrs. Lloyd Koch and the young generations of Kochs—Jodi and Dennis.

The "visitor's visit" we spoke of is that of Mrs. Marie Rippee, who will be visiting relatives in Hastings during the next few days.

Mrs. Rippee, if you recall, is spending some time with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spomer Jr. in Park Valley Heights.

This weekend, she will be leaving for Hastings where she is to spend a week with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Trupp, and family.

Next weekend, Mrs. Spomer and daughter, Mary Alice, will go to Hastings to Lincoln for another short visit before her return to her home in San Diego, Calif.

SKYLINE TERRACE

Before closing today, we wanted to tell you about a coffee on Wednesday morning that was hosted by Mrs. Charles Strong.

Neighbors on hand for the informal gathering were Mrs. Marlin Knickerbocker, Mrs. Lloyd Kaufman, Mrs. Richard Johnson, Mrs. William Debus, Mrs. Harold Salter, Mrs. Carl Bark, Mrs. Charles Reynolds, and Mrs. Marvin Bye.

Somehow or other it had seemed a year since the holidays until this morning when we were reminded that New Year's eve was just two weeks ago last Monday.

We learned other amazing facts this morning, too. It seems that the hunting season actually never ends. The pheasant, ducks, geese—and even the deer season has passed, but we hear that the hunting addicts go out after rabbits, squirrels, coyotes and such and things. All of this we learned from some of the "hunting widows" who plan activity of their own during the treks of the masculine contingent.

Another startling item concerns that something extra the hunters may anticipate if all goes well. The timanou may come to Nebraska.

The game commission says the bird is "fast-flying and flightless."

If we're confused by the description imagine what the bird will do to the hunters.

Enough of wild life and on to who is doing what around town—

There's a birthday club dinner on Saturday night, for one thing. The group will meet for dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Smith, and the anniversary celebrant will be George Holyoke.

Our calendar has a notation about next Tuesday evening and a bride-elect.

The party will be a dessert supper and linen shower for which Mrs. Gates Minick will be hostess at her home. The bride-elect is Miss Sue Juvenat whose marriage to Capt. Douglas W. Howell will take place in late spring.

And a weekend away is the dinner dance planned by the members of the 100 Club. The party, to be held at Hotel Cornhusker, is to be a costume affair, and we are told that it will have a circus theme.

There are homecomers to mention this morning—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reed who returned a few days ago from Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Reed, who spent the holiday season in Mexico City, but also visited many sections of the south of the border country.

Square Dances

Planning a dance for Friday evening are the members of the Guys And Gals Square Dance Club, who will meet at the Antelope Park pavilion.

Also dancing Friday evening will be the Westerners Club, which will meet at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

These Two Excellent Exercises Aids To Your Beauty Improvement Plan

Josephine Lowman

For a protruding abdomen:

Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight

Because of my experience in teaching figure molding classes, and my reader mail, I have a very good idea what some of the questions are those of you who are following my Beauty Improvement Plan would like to ask. Today I will answer some of them.

Q. "Can I reduce by exercise alone?"

A. No. If you are overweight you will have to count your calories, and stay below 1200 to 1400 per day.

Q. "How often should I measure myself?"

A. Not more than once a week. When I teach individually, I measure my pupils only once every two weeks.

Q. "How often should I weigh?"

A. Usually I recommend that you weigh yourself only once a week because weighing every day may be discouraging. However, on my BIP Weight Chart you weigh every day and plot your weight on the chart daily. I think, in this instance, the benefits outweigh the hazards.

BSP Chapter Activities

Preceding the regular meeting of Xi Alpha Delta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, on Tuesday evening, the members attended a meeting of the Lincoln Camera Club for a program of slides.

During the business meeting, held at the chapter rooms, the group named Mrs. James Woldorf as the chapter's candidate for Beta Sigma Phi Valentine Girl.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lloyd Behrens and Mrs. Robert Fleming, chapter president.

Mrs. Henry Eichler entertained the members of Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at her home on Wednesday evening. Following a dessert supper, the group spent the evening hours informally.

NU Dames Graduation

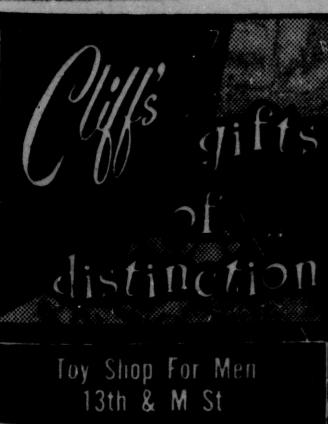

The University of Nebraska Dames honored 18 members on Thursday evening at a "graduation" program held in the Pan American Room of the Student Union.

Dean Adam C. Breckenridge presented "diplomas" to the members, whose husbands will receive their degrees from the university in February.

Club Meets

The January meeting of the Glamour Girls Extension Club was held at the home of Mrs. Ed Sayer, with the following new officers presiding: president, Mrs. Dale Read; vice president, Mrs. Bruce McElhaney; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Lester Halvorsen.

The lesson on "Choosing and Using Lamps," was given by Mrs. Don Reed and Mrs. McElhaney.

more pounds) you really run for the cottage cheese, lean meat and tossed salad!

Q. "Should I wear a girdle when exercising?"

A. No. Wear comfortable clothing which does not inhibit free movement.

Q. "Does it matter when I take my exercises? Is there any special time of day when they are most beneficial?"

A. No. Take them when it suits you best, except do not exercise when digestion is at its height. Either exercise before meals or several hours afterwards.

Q. "If my family tends to be heavy, is it possible for me to have a good figure?"

A. While it is possible to inherit the glandular setup of your forebears, your problem is more likely to be due to the fact that you inherited the family eating habits. A very small percentage of overweights are that way because of glandular abnormality.

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts, North having overcalled your heart bid with a spade. North leads the king of spades. South overtakes with the ace and returns the four. North wins with the nine and leads the queen of spades. How would you play the hand?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Seven No-trump. North leads the ten of spades. How would you play the hand?

♦AK93 ♠Q84 ♣Q84 ♠KQ1082
♦A5 ♠Q84 ♣Q84 ♠KQ1082

1. It is quite obvious, in view of the bidding and South's first two plays, that South started with a doubleton spade. There is a decided danger, therefore, of losing a trump trick if the first lead of spades is ruffed in dummy, whether with the king or anything else. South's hand might consist of in which case the contract is likely to be lost if dummy ruffs with either the ten or the king.

2. All in all, the best chance of making the hand is to discard the jack of clubs from dummy when North leads the third spade. This play practically assures the contract unless the trumps are divided 4-0.

2 You are looking at twelve sure tricks and the only problem is to find the best way of acquiring the thirteenth. This can be accomplished readily enough if either the hearts, diamonds or clubs are favorably divided, but, even so, you have to cash your tricks in the right order to have the maximum chance of making the grand slam.

The first thing to do is cash three spades, discarding a club from dummy. Then you take three rounds of hearts. Of course, if the hearts are divided 3-3, the hand is over, but, assuming they are not, you next cash three diamonds, starting with the queen in dummy.

The odds are that by this time something favorable has developed. If it hasn't, you are still in good shape. This is particularly so because either opponent who started with four clubs to the jack will have been squeezed by this time if he also started with either four hearts or four diamonds.

The one line of play to avoid is to cash the A-K-Q of clubs first. If you did this, you would have to choose between a heart or a diamond discard, and this could prove fatal if the suit you discarded turned out to be divided 3-3.

Huskers Tabbed 9th In Comeback Poll

From Press Dispatches

Nebraska's 1962 Cornhuskers received another national honor Thursday when the Associated Press announced its "Comeback of the Year" poll results.

Coach Bob Devaney's Huskers, who capped an 8-2 season with a sensational 36-34 Gotham Bowl victory over Miami, were voted 9th in the year-end poll.

Robin Roberts was the winner for "Comeback" honors, while Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals finished second. Oklahoma's football team was 3rd.

Rounding out the Top 10 were the San Francisco Giants, Southern California's football team, the Washington Redskins, Billy Pierce, Y. A. Tittle, Nebraska and Del Crandall.

Nebraska's fine season came on the heels of a 4-6 campaign in 1961 and a string of losing seasons dating back to 1954.

Devaney was voted the No. 3 spot in the AP's Coach of the Year poll announced earlier.

Looking ahead already to the 1963 season, Roberts said:

"I'm anticipating pitching regularly and doing well I'm quite anxious to get started."

Roberts collected 114 first place votes and a total of 506 points, based on a 3-2 tabulation, in the voting by 292 sportswriters and sportscasters throughout the nation in the annual Associated Press poll.

Roberts, sold by the Philadelphia Phillies to the New York Yankees after his worst season in 1961, then let go by the Yankees without pitching a game at the start of the 1962 season, was picked up by Baltimore May 21.

The 36-year-old right-hander, who had won 234 games in 14 seasons with the Phillies, finished with a 10-9 record with Baltimore and a 2.7 earned run average—second best in the American League. This compared to a 1-10 record and a 5.85 earned run average with the Phillies the previous season.

"The big thing was the opportunity I got to pitch and an adjustment in style," explained Roberts. "I got involved in a little more changes of speed."

"I never had thrown an effective change of pace before. It worked this year for me quite well. Once I was able to throw it, the other pitches seemed to come around a little better, too."

Asked about frequent reports that he had lost some of the zip off his fast ball several years ago and was too stubborn and proud to change his style then, Roberts remarked:

"Naturally, when you're not pitching well a lot of advice is offered in good faith. I have had occasion to try a lot of things the last 4 years, but none seemed to work out. There was no one moment when anything great happened. It was more or less steady improvement."

When the Yankees released Roberts, most observers figured he was done. But he said at the time that he still could pitch and help a major league team. Faith in himself proved him right.

Another veteran who had a big year after a mediocre season in 1961, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named first on 90 ballots and had 418 points to take second place in the poll.

TALKS BEGIN TODAY

—BETTING PROBE CONTINUES—

Lions Questioned

ALEX KARRAS

New York (AP) — Star tackle Alex Karras, glum and silent, and teammate Wayne Walker, relaxed and relieved, flew back to Detroit Thursday night after both were questioned by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle at a secret rendezvous.

An unsmiling Karras declined to answer newsmen's queries when he landed at Detroit.

"I'm under strict orders not to do any more talking," he said and made no further comment. Walker was equally noncommittal.

Karras, 250-pound All-Pro ace of the Detroit Lions, underwent two long grilling sessions with Rozelle, before the pair flew back to their homes. He has admitted betting on NFL games.

Walker had only a 10-minute talk with the commissioner, in the latest development of the pro football betting investigation.

Karras was obviously under orders not to talk about the sessions, but he emerged pale and apparently disturbed.

The big tackle had said his bets were limited to a pack of cigarettes and a couple of cigars.

"They didn't say anything to me but I feel I am in the clear," said Walker, the Lions' linebacker and place-kickoff returner.

Except to acknowledge that "we met," Rozelle refused to discuss his meetings with the players.

The subcommittee disclosed several weeks ago it had agents in the field exploring for evidence to be used in hearings later this year on gambling on sports events and efforts to corrupt athletes.

McClellan said it would be premature to discuss now which athletes or gamblers may be questioned during the preliminary stages of the inquiry.

Karras was the first to be called. The quiz lasted an hour and 15 minutes. Then came Walker's turn. His questioning lasted just 10 minutes.

After a break for lunch, Karras was summoned for another session.

"I spent part of the time there talking for Alex," said Walker. "I told them he just didn't know what he was doing when he consented to appear on that television show."

Walker was referring to an NBC television interview shown Wednesday night which had been taped Sunday. On that show Karras was asked if he ever had bet on football games. His reply was "I have bet on ball games."

To the question whether he ever bet on a game in which he was playing, Karras replied: "Yes, I have."

Yankton In Middle Of Tri-State Race

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Yankton College's Greyhounds find themselves back in the middle of the Tri-State Conference title chase.

The South Dakotans appear to have regained the winning combination as evidenced by a decisive 85-66 victory over Concordia at Seward.

Blitzed by the shooting of Al Buick during the first half and down by 13 points at intermission, Yankton burst forth with 56 points in the last 20 minutes to win going away. Buick's one-man attack that netted 41 points was overshadowed by a balanced Yankton effort.

Four Greyhounds tallied in double figures with Bill Spears' 22-point effort in the second half providing the winning thrust.

Concordia's next engagement will be a rematch at Yankton on the 25th.

Midland, in the midst of a 3-week breather from loop play, can figure in the title picture if it maintains a winning tempo in 1963. The Warriors' lone conference victory—and Yankton's single loss—was brought about by a 83-70 decision at Fremont on Jan. 5.

Wayne At Top

Initial warfare in the Nebraska College Conference saw Wayne emerge at the top of the heap by virtue of a two-game sweep at Chadron.

Results of the 5 games played fail to provide much enlightenment as to a possible champ. Kearney looks to be the one quintet, out of the running, absorbing a pair of drubbings at the hands of Doane and Peru.

In fact, it's not the AAU which makes a man ineligible if he competes in a meet sponsored by the college federation," the AAU director said. "The man makes himself ineligible, under the international rules."

Hull insists that it is these international rules which are blocking any sort of peaceful coexistence with the rival federation.

"For 50 years the AAU has been the American agent for the IAFF (International Amateur Track and Field Federation)," he said. "Until there is a change, we are bound to observe their laws."

Hull accuses the college group of "anarchy" and "revolution" in its move to set up a rival governing organization. "It's a sheer power grab," he said.

Represents 600

The National Collegiate Athletic Association, representing some 600 institutions of higher learning, insists that since most of the nation's top track and field stars come from undergraduate ranks a college federation should conduct their affairs. The NCAA also charges a long history of mismanagement within the AAU.

This is the impasse MacArthur faces in the arbitration meeting.

Religious Leaders Declare Segregation 'Insult To God'

... ISSUE PLAN TO TEAR BARRIERS

Chicago (UPI) — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders in an unprecedented joint appeal to the conscience of the American people declared Thursday that racial discrimination and segregation are morally indefensible and "an insult to God."

"Racism is our most serious domestic evil," the nation's religious leaders said. "We must eradicate it with all diligence and speed."

The "appeal to conscience" was issued at the closing session of a 4-day National Conference on Religion and Race. The conference was sponsored by the National Council of Churches, the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the Synagogue Council of America.

It marked the first time in U.S. history that all major faiths had spoken with one voice in denouncing segregation as a moral evil that should be totally eliminated from American life.

Action Program

The conference of 700 churchmen handed churches and synagogues an "action program" to tear down racial barriers in religion, housing, politics, employment and business.

It called for prompt elimination of segregation and discrimination in all religious

ACE Urges Vast Use Of Federal Aid

Washington (UPI) — The influential American Council on Education proposed Thursday a vast and sweeping program of federal aid to develop the nation's colleges and universities.

The council declined to put a price tag on its package, but the 11-point program covers everything: buildings, teachers, scholarships, student loans, aid for foreign students.

The council, representing 1,000 institutions of higher education and 175 national, regional and state education organizations, said details of its proposals might be spelled out at a later date.

What We Need

"This is what we need," a council spokesman said. "It is up to the president and the Congress to determine the scope of these proposals."

The only dollar figure mentioned was $1 billion annually in matching grants and low interest loans for construction of academic facilities in both public and private institutions.

This is in addition to the present college housing loan program of $300 million a year that runs until 1965, which the council said should be expanded if necessary.

Acknowledges

The council acknowledged that it was proposing the use of federal funds for private institutions, including those which are church-related.

"This is nothing new, however, in either principle or practice," the council said. "Historically, the Congress and the federal government have drawn no line of demarcation between public and private institutions of higher education when utilizing them in the national interest."

The council noted that college enrollments are expected to increase from 4.2 million in the fall of 1963 to 7 million by 1970, and that one-fourth of this increase will come between 1963 and 1965 alone.

Priority

"First priority," it said, "should go to federal programs designed to assure the coming generation of college students of classrooms, laboratories, and libraries in which to learn, and qualified persons to teach them."

Second priority, it added, should be given to lowering the financial barriers to higher education for qualified students.

The council said speedy action is needed because "it takes time to pass new federal legislation and get it into effective operation. It also takes time to plan and build new buildings, and to complete the graduate education of a college teacher."

institutions, including schools and churches, and proposed that religious bodies work diligently to help Negro families obtain homes in white neighborhoods.

The conferees also recommended that religious groups insist on pledges of no job discrimination from builders and other firms, help conduct voter registration drives among southern Negroes and promote opportunities for whites and Negroes to meet "on equal status" and get to know each other as human beings.

The "appeal to conscience" was accompanied by a frank concession that churches and synagogues "have been slow" to enter the struggle for racial justice.

Participated

"Even worse," the statement said, "religious institutions have participated in perpetuating segregation" in their own houses of worship, schools, hospitals, welfare institutions and fraternal organizations.

"We repent our failures and ask the forgiveness of God," said the statement. "We ask also the forgiveness of our brothers, whose rights we have ignored and whose dignity we have offended."

Racial discrimination is not a sectional problem, the religious leaders said.

"Patterns of segregation remain entrenched everywhere — north and south, east and west."

Must Lead

Declaring that God is "the giver of human dignity and human rights" and churches and synagogues must "lead now" in the transition to an integrated society, they said:

"We call upon all the American people to work, to pray, and to act courageously in the cause of human equality and dignity while there is still time, to eliminate racism permanently and decisively."

The action proposals were not binding on any denomination or local congregation, but a followup committee was established to seek wide implementation of the program.

The conference called for establishment of local interfaith organizations in hundreds of American communities to tackle specific portions of the program.

The recommendations suggested that Protestants, Catholics and Jews working together can do many things in a community which a single, militant congregation might have difficulty accomplishing alone.

Plans Afoot

It was announced that plans already are afoot for the creation of such interfaith machinery in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Atlanta, New Orleans, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Seattle, Oakland, Calif., and San Antonio, Tex.

The action program proposed that religious bodies:

—Help Negro families obtain homes in all white suburbs.

—Work for the "stabilization" of changing neighborhoods in the inner-city.

—Solicit "open occupancy" housing pledges in their communities and establish "service centers to bring together buyers and sellers who are willing to integrate their community."

—Invest

—Invest pension and endowment funds in interracial housing developments and other projects that will promote "equality of opportunity."

—Insist on pledges of no job discrimination in contracts for church construction and supplies.

Refuse to accept church sites offered free by real estate operators who are developing segregated communities.

Demand

—Demand that all federal grants, including aid to schools, colleges and hospitals, be conditioned on "assurance of non-discriminatory admission policies."

—Use church funds to facilitate mortgage financing for Negro home buyers (for instance, by depositing funds in financial institutions which have no discrimination in lending).

—Set an example of non-discrimination in employment.

—Encourage more hard-hitting sermons on practical racial problems. And stress "education for racial justice" in all church-related schools.

—Set up more exchanges of ministers and mutual visits by white and Negro congregations.

BISHOP MEDITATES

Bishop St. Psalm meditates problems as he sits inside casket in his St. Psalm Spiritual Church at Nashville, Tenn. The Negro spiritualist says he is conducting fast and prayer vigil to determine whether God wants him to make any more "holy wine" for his congregation. Police charged the bishop with making moonshine whisky and he was fined $50.

Life Jackets On Ship; More May Flee Cuba

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (UPI) — A thousand life jackets were loaded onto the SS Shirley Lykes Thursday night as the freighter prepared to sail for Havana amid indications that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro would let more refugees leave.

Officials of the American Red Cross, sponsoring the voyage to deliver Cuban invasion prisoner ransom supplies of food and medicine, would not say why the life jackets were stowed on the 490-foot merchant craft.

The Coast Guard said the flotation gear was being taken along "in the event that refugees are permitted to leave Cuba aboard the ship. This is a standard safety provision."

In addition to the ship's 7,000 tons of ransom supplies, additional ransom was to be carried to Havana by a Pan American World Airways plane which also would be able to bring back refugees if Castro okayed their departure.

In Havana, a Swiss diplomat said the Cuban government was expected to clear a second plane load of Cuban-American citizens for departure Friday.

Attorney General Argues 1st Case; Fights Vote Law In Supreme Court

Washington (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy argued his first court case Thursday before the Supreme Court — and an impressive, 3-generation array of Kennedys.

It was a little like a baseball player making his first public batting appearance in the World Series, because the President's 37-year-old brother had never before argued a case in any court.

He was following a tradition that the attorney general usually makes at least one appearance as a pleader before the highest tribunal. He chose a civil rights case, involving Georgia voting laws, and was assigned the closing 30 minutes of a 3-hour period of argument by counsel for both sides.

Up Hold Findings

Kennedy urged the Supreme Court to uphold the findings of an appeals court that Georgia's county-unit voting system in Democratic primary elections is an unconstitutional discrimination against urban voters.

The attorney general made clear the government is not asking the court to prescribe a specific substitute for the county-unit system under which a candidate carrying a county gets all its unit votes and under which heavily populated counties have a relatively much smaller voice than sparsely settled rural counties.

He said:

"For the Supreme Court to set up a standard for various states is impossible. The people of the states know their background and problems. As for Georgia, we feel that as men of good will the legislators will pass a law that is fair."

But he said it is the duty of the United States to see that the right of franchise is restored in Georgia.

Justice Arthur J. Goldberg said he gathered the government feels every county-unit system is discriminatory and, if that is the case, "why not have the courage to say so?"

This brought the following exchange between Kennedy and the former secretary of labor:

Kennedy: "we have the courage to say so but we think it is unnecessary. It might be there are states where legislatures will come up with a system making some sense."

Goldberg: "but I can't conceive of that."

Kennedy: "But I can't conceive of it."

1st Since March

Thursday's case was the first of its kind heard by the high court since a historic decision last March when it held that federal courts have the authority to decide complaints of arbitrary apportionment of state legislatures to the disadvantage of city dwellers.

Speaking in behalf of the Georgia Democratic Party, B. D. Murphy, assistant deputy attorney general for Georgia, argued that the county-unit system is "valid and represents the proper exercise of legislative power by a state."

16-Year-Old Girl Strangled After Refusing Boy A Kiss

Boston (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy who, police said, admitted strangling a 16-year-old girl in a Roxbury alley after she refused him a kiss, was held without bail Thursday.

A plea of no contest was entered for Donald Morris, a Negro, to a charge of being a delinquent child by reason of homicide.

The dead girl, Daniella Saunders, was the daughter of an American Negro Army veteran and a German war bride.

Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara gave this account of the boy's story.

He followed the girl into an alley near her home Jan. 5 and said hello to her.

Daniella said "I don't know you." The boy asked her for a kiss and when she refused he placed his arm around her neck and held her until she fell to the ground.

Another youth was with him. They fled.

McNamara said the boy made the admissions after several hours' interrogation.

Daniella was the 9th female strangling victim in greater Boston in the past 7 months. None of the other crimes has been solved. Police said the death was not connected with the others.

The girl was not abused sexually.

Young Morris was taken to Suffolk County Jail to await a hearing Jan. 24.

Minimum Wage Is Aim Of New Bill

... $1 Per Hour Pay Is Proposed

A minimum wage law setting a pay floor of $1 per hour was proposed in the State Legislature Thursday.

The bill was one of 29 tossed into the hopper on the 13th legislative day of the 73rd session.

The new attempt to set a wage minimum within the state was launched by Omaha Sens. William Skarda, Jr., Eugene Mahoney and Sam Klaiver.

Exempt would be agricultural and domestic employees, executives and professionals, U.S. Government employees, persons engaged in education, charitable, religious or nonprofit organization pursuits, salesmen, grade and high school students, apprentices and learners, inexperienced workers who have worked less than three months for any one employer, veterans in training under Veterans Administration supervision, persons who are compensated primarily from tips, and children working for their parents.

Sen. Matt Wylie of Elgin introduced a bill making jail sentences mandatory for persons violating Nebraska laws related to sale of liquor to minors. The present law permits fine without jail terms.

Another Wylie bill would require newspaper publication of the total of each taxpayer's personal property tax schedule.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff introduced a bill requiring all rules and regulations of the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission to be enacted into law by the Legislature to have any force and effect.

The formula for apportioning state school funds to school districts would be revised under a bill presented by Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud.

Present Formula

The present formula distributes payments first in lieu of taxes to counties with school lands, then distributes one fourth of the remainder equally among school districts without regard to size, and three fourths on the basis of the census of pupils.

Bowen's LB299 would distribute the entire remainder, after payments in lieu of taxes, on the basis of the census of pupils 5 to 18 years of age.

Another school-related bill introduced principally by Sen. Arnold Ruhne of Plymouth would prohibit a public high school from dropping a student for nonresidence after the student once had been accepted.

The measure would affect the several Nebraska high schools which have decided not to accept non-resident students.

New Airplane Will Replace Copters Here

A new type of airplane will replace the helicopters now used for transportation between Lincoln Air Force Base and nearby Atlas missile bases.

The new plane, called a U6A, can take off or land within 600 feet at 60 miles per hour. A special landing gear turns to allow the plane to land in strong crosswinds.

Ten U6As are expected to be used to transport personnel, parts, supplies, and, in emergencies, hospital litters, between LAFB and the missile bases.

Landing strips 1,200 feet long and 100 feet wide are being prepared at the missile bases for the planes.

The first U6A arrived at LAFB this week. The Air Force said it is a modified version of the DeHavilland Beaver.

Green Cited By State Chapter Of Engineers' Group

Dean Emeritus Roy M. Green was honored at the regular meeting of the Nebraska section of the American Society of Civil Engineers with its first distinguished member award.

The presentation was made by D. L. Erickson, who briefly reviewed Dean Green's professional career.

Currently vice president and representative of zone 3 in the society, Dean Green, it was noted, had outlined the program for development of high standards of professional conduct in civil engineering.

The following officers of the Nebraska section for 1963 were also installed: Charles F. Fowler of Lincoln, president; William Alsmeyer of Omaha, senior vice president; Henry Wulf of Lincoln, junior vice president; Aaron Baumman of Omaha, director at large; Sidney Price of Omaha, director; Max Burroughs of Lincoln, secretary; and Richard Babcock of Lincoln, treasurer.

Colorado Firm Is Picked For LAFB Atlas Sites Job

A Colorado firm has been awarded a $375,119 contract for construction of antenna supports for the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile sites at Lincoln, Neb., according to the district office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The contract went to Lluts Construction Co., Inc., Pueblo, Colo., which submitted the lowest of 10 bids opened Jan. 8.

Col. H. G. Woodbury, Jr., Omaha district engineer, said the job was estimated to cost about $466,700.

The contract provides for completion of the reinforced concrete pads and installation of the steel silos to house the antenna equipment in approximately 7 months.

The Atlas missile launch facilities ring Lincoln Air Force Base.
